

A VILLAGE CALLED VERSAILLES
Production Stills – Captions & Credits

AVCV Title.jpg

Title graphic for A Village Called Versailles
Graphics credit: Idle Hands Studio

VCV_Church_Gardener.jpg

Versailles elderly gardener takes a moment away from her work, 2006.
Photo Credit: Lucas Foglia

VCV_Anh_Cao_protest.jpg

Hai Au Huynh (left) and US Congressman-to-be Anh "Joseph" Cao (right) protesting outside of City Hall in New Orleans, 2006.
Photo Credit: James Dien Bui

VCV_Father_Vien_cross.jpg

Pastor Vien Nguyen of Mary Queen of Vietnam Church in New Orleans East deliberates on the next steps for his community, 2009.
Photo Credit: Andy Levin

VCV_Father_Luke_landfill_protest.jpg

Mimi C. Nguyen (far left), Father Luke Nguyen (right), and Versailles youth celebrate victory at the Chef Menteur Landfill protest. 2006.

Photo Credit: Yoojin Janice Lee

VCV_Katrina_DumpSite.JPG

Katrina Dump site located just outside of the Vietnamese-American community known as Versailles, in New Orleans East, 2006.

Photo Credit: Urban Land Institute

VCV_line_of_protesters.jpg

Protestors line up outside of New Orleans City Hall to protest the shutting down of a toxic landfill in their neighborhood, 2006.

Photo Credit: James Dien Bui

VCV_little_boy_protest.jpg

Young Versailles community member participates in protest to shut down the Chef Menteur Highway Landfill, 2006.

Photo Credit: James Dien Bui

VCV_Mimi_Nguyen(LR).jpg

Community organizer Mimi C. Nguyen takes the mic at a protest, 2006.
Photo Credit: Yoojin Janice Lee

VCV_Water_Versailles.jpg

Residents of Versailles return to their neighborhood to check out the damage following Hurricane Katrina, 2005.
Photo Credit: Mary Queen of Vietnam Church

VCV_religious_procession.jpg

Religious procession in Versailles, 1975.
Photo Credit: Archdiocese of New Orleans

VCV_S.LeoChiang1

Producer-Director S. Leo Chiang at the Versailles Lunar New Year Festival, 2009.
Photo Credit: Andy Levin